Kors, it's the first

Michael Kors watches and jewellery previously only available at its boutiques can now be found at the standalone store in Suria KLCC. – LOW BOON TAT/ The Star

FANS of luxury fashion accessories must surely be rejoicing with the opening of the Michael Kors Watch & Jewellery store in Suria KLCC in November.

Located on the first floor, the new store offers a diverse range of watches and jewellery by the American fashion designer that were previously only available in its boutiques.

Explaining the decision to open the store, Fossil Group managing director Johnson Verghese says: “Michael Kors has a great variety of watches for men and women. There is simply insufficient room in the existing boutiques to display these fine timepieces for everyone to look at.

“As such, we have decided to open a standalone store dedicated to watches and jewellery here in the iconic Suria KLCC, approved by Michael Kors himself,” he adds.

Gold never gets old, does it?

The Michael Kors store is the first of its kind to be opened in South East-Asia, following the growing presence of the brand worldwide. And Kuala Lumpur is happy to do the honours.

The highlight of the collections featured at the new store is its Holiday 2015 Watch Collection, which features attractive designs for men and women alike for the Christmas and New Year season.

Watches in the collection include Modern Neutrals, Petite Perfection and Metallic Leathers — all inspired by the jet-set lifestyle.

Also displayed in their full glory are the Michael Kors jewellery pieces that include bracelets, earrings and rings in various eye-catching designs.

“Michael Kors watch and jewellery collections are easily identifiable for the Michael Kors fans. The high-end products here at the new store resonate with people who live a jet-set lifestyle, like Michael Kors himself,” Verghese concludes.

Chic bracelets in gold are just the thing for the season.
